Dear Principal

I am writing to you about the Turnbull Government's commitment to deliver on Mr David Gonski AC's recommendations for fairer, needs-based schools funding from 2018 and what it means for your school.

I'd like to acknowledge the important work you and your staff do each and every day to provide our children with the best possible start in life.

To help ensure you have the necessary funding to meet the needs of the children in your school, the Turnbull Government has announced an extra $18.6 billion in funding on top of already record and growing funding for Australian schools over the next 10 years.

Commonwealth school funding will grow each year by more than $1 billion. This will be real growth for students, well above inflation or wages growth. This will bring our total 10 year investment to a record $242.3 billion.

I am pleased to advise that, based on current modelling and your latest enrolment figures as reported to the Commonwealth Department of Education and Training, WA College of Agriculture Cunderdin is estimated to see an increase of $28,700 funding from 2017 to 2018. We estimate an average annual per student increase of 6.8 per cent over the ten years that will deliver a total increase from 2017 to 2027 of $1,815,200.

It is important to note that as part of a system, Commonwealth funding attracted by your school is paid to the system. They may choose to reallocate funding between schools in their system, and have the autonomy to finally determine the amount your school receives.

Please note that these are estimates only and assume the same student population applies from 2017 to 2027. Actual payments for your school will vary depending on enrolments. They are also subject to the passage of legislation.

Our funding growth means schools will be able to continue to expand support to students for both new and existing initiatives, such as specialist teachers or targeted intervention programs.

As envisaged by the 2011 Review of Funding for Schooling, led by Mr Gonski, we will ensure payments are calculated with a base amount per student and additional loadings for Indigenous students and students with a disability, as well as those from language backgrounds other than English, from disadvantaged backgrounds, and those attending small and remote schools.

We will end the special deals made by the former Government that have resulted in students with the same need within the same sector being treated differently just because of the state in which they live. Under our new model, the same student with the same need in the same school sector will be treated the same by the Australian Government across states, ensuring Commonwealth funding is allocated to where it is needed the most.

Funding entitlements will be set in legislation to ensure certainty for schools and we will therefore be seeking the support of the Australian Parliament to secure these new arrangements.

To underpin our increased investment, Mr Gonski has agreed to lead the Review to Achieve Educational Excellence in Australian Schools. It will provide advice on how the extra Commonwealth funding should be invested to improve Australian schools' performance and grow student achievement.

The Review will be finalised by the end of 2017 to align with the Australian Government's new approach to schools funding from 2018, and the findings will inform a new national schools agreement and bilateral reform plans with states and territories.

Information about the new arrangements and how they will work is available at www.education.gov.au/qualityschools. There you will find fact sheets and a 'school funding estimator' that will indicate what the new arrangements mean for your school. I encourage you to share a copy of this letter and information with your school community.

Yours sincerely
