HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

The Western Australian College of Agriculture - Cunderdin owes its existence in large measure to the efforts of the late Mr Steve Lundy. He convinced the Government of the day that Cunderdin was an appropriate place to establish an Agricultural School, using the RAAF land and facilities already existing there.

On 9 February 1959 the Education Department opened the school with an enrolment of 20 students. The original area, of some 384 hectares, was increased when the "Warrigal" property of 358 hectares, situated close to the Cunderdin township, was purchased.

The dormitories, How House, Weller House, Linto House, Moyle & Morton are named after staff members who have made significant contributions to the development of the College. In 2011 Moyle & Morton Dormitories were opened giving an additional 36 beds.

Following the Report of the Advisory Committee on Agricultural Education (McDowell Committee) the College became separate from the Town School and was renamed Cunderdin Agricultural College in 1984.

In 1996, the College purchased a further 445 hectares (known as Baxter's land) which adjoins our property on two sides. This land was previously leased to the College from 1990 - 1996. This purchase brought the total land available to the College to 1,585ha.

In 2000 the College purchased a further 529ha from Fiegert's. In 2016 the College was successful in securing an additional 1100ha of arable land that included the Greyhome and Jenzen blocks. The College now has a total of 4023ha of which 2516ha is arable. $1.7 million in funding was sourced from Royalties for Regions with the Department of Education supporting the remaining funding required.

A Trades Centre designed by College staff specifically to cater for the workshop needs of students was completed in February 1996. Also completed in February 1996, was the extensive Student Recreation Centre, which replaced a dilapidated building that existed from pre-war days.

In September 1999 the College was independently validated to achieve Registered Training Organisation (RTO) status. This registration allowed the College to deliver and assess national competency-based.

The Trade Training Centre additions were completed in 2014, including an extension to the existing Trades Building, a new Farm Workshop and offices, as well as a new weaner grower shed in the piggery. Further infrastructure improvements have included five piggery dome shelters, a piggery office and finisher shed, along with the construction of new cattle yards.

Investment in the College's facilities has also continued in recent years. In 2024, a new classroom and toilet block were completed, further improving the College's facilities for students and staff. In 2026, the existing science laboratory was replaced with a new, modern facility, providing an updated space for practical, hands-on learning. The College continues to go from strength to strength with the ongoing acquisition of modern vehicles, machinery and infrastructure ensuring students have access to contemporary facilities and the latest educational opportunities.
